John F. Kennedy Elementary fire control panel had numerous false alarms reported to Multitech (our monitoring service) in the past months. National Fire Control came to troubleshoot the system and determined the control panel was obsolete and must be replaced. The fire marshal, while doing his annual inspection, upon hearing we were going to replace the panel commented that when major revisions are made to fire alarm systems the work must bring the entire system "up to code". He noted during his inspection that we would need to add sprinklers or smoke detectors in areas that did not have them. He also pointed out that pull-station boxes would need to be relocated. Another comment shared by the fire marshal was that the wiring may have to be upgraded.
